Bahá'í Standards of Behavior

INTRODUCTION: Approaching the threshold...

Living a Bahá'í life calls for an ongoing effort to develop one's character and refine one's behavior, as is best exemplified by the life of 'Abdu'l-Bahá. All of us come into this Faith with specialized God-given capacities that are not fully developed. Furthermore, most of us have inherited or developed certain behavioral burdens that require serious curtailment. It is certain all have room to grow, as the steps on the path of spiritual improvement are endless.

Shoghi Effendi, Guardian of the Bahá'í Faith, identified three initial requirements of spiritual success that should be given serious attention by the believers; namely, a high sense of moral rectitude, absolute chastity, and complete freedom from prejudice. The focus of this study will be Bahá'í standards of private and public behavior as they relate to these three subjects.

The Guardian, Shoghi Effendi

OBJECTIVE: A look to the horizon...

Facilitator

Review the following objective with the participants:

The objective of this study is to understand the fundamental verities or basic truths regarding standards of private and public behavior in living the Bahá'í life.

THE STUDY PROCESS: Attaining the water of life...

Facilitator

Review the following study process with the participants. Then study the numbered quotations that follow, one at a time as described below.

- 1. READING: A drink from the cup of guidance...
 - A. Read the quotation out loud in its entirety.
- 2. CONFIRMING MEANING: A spray from the fountain of light...

To better understand certain words used in the quotation, take turns with the following:

- A. Each participant choose a word from the quotation and state it for the whole group to hear. (Like a fun game pick a word!) Then...
- B. Read out loud the sentence that contains the word you selected, while substituting for that word, its given phrase, definition, or synonym from the boxes below the quotation.
- C. Repeat A and B above until everyone is satisfied with their understanding of the words.
- 3. FINDING VALUE: Mining the gems of truth...
 - A. Read the quotation out loud again in its entirety.
 - B. Take turns stating each basic fact or truth you can find in the quotation about standards of private and public behavior in living the Bahá'í life.

QUOTATIONS: Within the meadows of Thy nearness...

1. These requirements [the spiritual requisites of success] are none other than a high sense of moral rectitude in their social and administrative activities, absolute chastity in their individual lives, and complete freedom from prejudice in their dealings with peoples of a different race, class, creed, or color.

(Shoghi Effendi, The Advent of Divine Justice, p. 22)

absolute: complete and perfect administrative: management or directing of [Bahá'í] chastity: cleanliness and purity in thought and action from sexual misconduct class: social ranking as a group creed: system of beliefs dealings: actions taken freedom: liberation and exemption moral: excellence in what pertains to right and wrong conduct or behavior prejudice: preconceived opinion or judgment of those different from oneself, not based on ⋄ reason or actual experience and often marked by a sense of self-superiority, suspicion, intolerance, or irrational hatred pure: clean and free of any sinful, immoral, or selfish motives, imaginings, or behaviors; ; "To be selfless is to be pure." ('Abdu'l-Bahá in London, p. 106)

righteous: morally right, fair, just, and virtuous in accordance with the divine spirit; "...the whole object of such righteousness is but recognition of God, thy Lord, and undoubted faith in the Words revealed by Him." (Selections from the Writings of the Bab, p. 34)

4. Such a chaste and holy life, with its implications of modesty, purity, temperance, decency, and clean-mindedness, involves no less than the exercise of moderation in all that pertains to dress, language, amusements, and all artistic and literary avocations. It demands daily vigilance in the control of one's carnal desires and corrupt inclinations. It calls for the abandonment of a frivolous conduct, with its excessive attachment to trivial and often misdirected pleasures. It requires total abstinence from all alcoholic drinks, from opium, and from similar habit-forming drugs. It condemns the prostitution of art and of literature, the practices of nudism and of companionate marriage, infidelity in marital relationships, and all manner of promiscuity, of easy familiarity, and of sexual vices. It can tolerate no compromise with the theories, the standards, the habits, and the excesses of a decadent age. Nay rather it seeks to demonstrate, through the dynamic force of its example, the pernicious character of such theories, the falsity of such standards, the hollowness of such claims, the perversity of such habits, and the sacrilegious character of such excesses.

abandonment: giving up with the intent of never again claiming a right or interest abstinence: voluntarily depriving oneself or refraining age: period of time in history identified by distinct features amusements: pleasurable pastimes or diversions; entertainment artistic: of art or artists

attachment: heart-felt attraction and attentionavocations: secondary occupations or enjoyable hobbies tolerate: put up with; allow; permit trivial: those things of little worth or importancevices: habits or behaviors that are immoral or degrading vigilance: attention and watchfulness to avoid danger or pitfalls

5. Bahá'u'lláh tells us that prejudice in its various forms destroys the edifice of humanity. We are adjured by the Divine Messenger to eliminate all forms of prejudice from our lives. Our outer lives must show forth our beliefs. The world must see that, regardless of each passing whim or current fashion of the generality of mankind, the Bahá'í lives his life according to the tenets of his Faith. We must not allow the fear of rejection by our friends and neighbours to deter us from our goal: to live the Bahá'í life. Let us strive to blot out from our lives every last trace of prejudice—racial, religious, political, economic, national, tribal, class, cultural, and that which is based on differences of education or age.

(Messages from the Universal House of Justice, 1963-1986: The Third Epoch of the Formative Age, p. 222, ¶117.2) adjured: earnestly advised in the most solemn and impressive manner racial: of people based on race rejection: being unaccepted or unwanted by not fulfilling expected requirements religious: of people based on religion strive: devote serious energy or effort tenets: principles, beliefs, and doctrines held to be true

trace: minute sign or evidence tribal: of people based on tribe of origin or affiliation

various: indefinite number of

whim: sudden turn or new interest of the mind

6. For you I desire spiritual distinction—that is, you must become eminent and distinguished in morals. In the love of God you must become distinguished from all else. You must become distinguished for loving humanity, for unity and accord, for love and justice. In brief, you must become distinguished in all the virtues of the human world—for faithfulness and sincerity, for justice and fidelity, for firmness and steadfastness, for philanthropic deeds and service to the human world, for love toward every human being, for unity and accord with all people, for removing prejudices and promoting international peace. Finally, you must become distinguished for heavenly illumination and for acquiring the bestowals of God.

accord: agreeable and harmonious relationships acquiring: striving to obtain (see The Promulgation of Universal Peace, pp. 195-96 #70.1-70.2) bestowals of God: divine gifts; "...bestowals which are the wisdom and guidance of God and the favor of God, which constitute spiritual progress." ('Abdu'l-Bahá, Divine Philosophy, p. 34)

distinguished: set apart from others by outstanding, notable qualities eminent: well-known, outstanding, and prominent faithfulness: being steadfast in belief, firm in allegiance, and true in affection to God fidelity: strict and continued faithfulness and loyalty firmness: being constant in affection and principles heavenly illumination: spiritual insight, enlightenment, knowledge, and understanding justice: rendering and conforming to what is right, good, true, and fair as defined by the Word of God love of God: "...the love of God is realized in the universal love of all humanity." ('Abdu'l-Bahá, Star of the West, Vol. VIII:10, 8 September 1917, p. 135) morals: the practice of right and proper conduct philanthropic: loving, charitable, and helpful prejudices: preconceived opinions or judgments of those different from oneself, not based on reason or actual experience service: performance of beneficial deeds or workssincerity: honesty of feelings, beliefs, and intentionspiritual distinction: divine virtues and qualitiesthat sets one apart with recognition and honor

CLOSING MEDITATION: A heart song...

From `Abdu'l-Bahá to some believers in the West.

O army of God! Today, in this world, every people is wandering astray in its own desert, moving here and there according to the dictates of its fancies and whims, pursuing its own particular caprice. Amongst all the teeming masses of the earth, only this community of the Most Great Name is free and clear of human schemes and hath no selfish purpose to promote. Alone amongst them all, this people hath arisen with aims purified of self, following the Teachings of God, most eagerly toiling and striving toward a single goal: to turn this nether dust into high heaven, to make of this world a mirror for the Kingdom, to change this world into a different world, and cause all humankind to adopt the ways of righteousness and a new manner of life.

O army of God! Through the protection and help vouchsafed by the Blessed Beauty—may my life be a sacrifice to His loved ones—ye must conduct yourselves in such a manner that ye may stand out distinguished and brilliant as the sun among other souls. Should any one of you enter a city, he should become a centre of attraction by reason of his sincerity, his faithfulness and love, his honesty and fidelity, his truthfulness and loving-kindness towards all the peoples of the world, so that the people of that city may cry out and say: "This man is unquestionably a Bahá'í, for his manners, his behaviour, his conduct, his morals, his nature, and disposition reflect the attributes of the Bahá'ís." Not until ye attain this station can ye be said to have been faithful to the Covenant and Testament of God. For He hath, through irrefutable Texts, entered into a binding Covenant with us all, requiring us to act in accordance with His sacred instructions and counsels.

O army of God! The time hath come for the effects and perfections of the Most Great Name to be made manifest in this excellent age, so as to establish, beyond any doubt, that this era is the era of Bahá'u'lláh, and this age is distinguished above all other ages.

(Selections from the Writings of `Abdu'l-Bahá, pp. 70-71)
